

Wilson Bared As Backer of Ruhr Invasion; Oil Scandal Has Rival in Treasury Exposure

NEW EXPOSE HITS LOOTING OF TREASURY

Gigantic Liberty Bond Frauds Stuns Even Washington

WASHINGTON.—A gigantic bond fraud involving high government and treasury officials threw Washington into another fit of political delirium tremens when Charles B. Brewer, special assistant attorney general, uncovered evidence of duplication of liberty bonds running into millions of dollars.

"Where will the graft stop?" is the question now being asked by the hotel lobbies at Washington. Almost the entire Coolidge cabinet is involved already in the War Veterans Bureau and Teapot Dome scandals. Now the probers have reacted the treasury.

Consternation reigns in official circles. Nobody knows where the next bomb is going to fall.

Evidence of a duplication of Liberty bonds was examined by a congressional committee yesterday. The committee will decide in a few days.

1.—Whether Brewer's evidence should be presented to a grand jury at once, or

2.—Whether a congressional investigation will precede court action.

These steps have followed Brewer's investigation for more than a year ago before a Congressional investigation.

They say it is more likely to be in a wide wash and a covering-up process than getting at the cause. A close guard is kept on the treasury vaults where the bonds are stored.

Senator King after a preliminary examination of the evidence presented in Brewer's disclosure that he was convinced there was something rotten in the treasury and the bureau of printing and engraving. He favored immediate grand jury action, else the great flow of corruption in Washington would soon lose the confidence of the people of this country in the government.

Damned Mellon Reveals Facts.
Demand that Secretary Mellon reveal facts on duplication of millions of dollars worth of government bonds was made in the House today by Representative La Guardia of New York.

La Guardia, who yesterday examined the records of bonds collected by Charles B. Brewer, Department of Justice investigator, introduced two resolutions designed to force Secretary Mellon to reveal the alleged duplicate bonds to Congress.

The resolutions, which Mellon is to report to the House the number, amount and serial numbers of all government bonds and treasury certificates issued since 1917 and the number of bonds purchased and destroyed.

The information, La Guardia insists, they exact against the evidence collected by Brewer. Brewer's evidence is now in the hands of Representative King, Illinois.

Supreme Court Denies Hearing to Janitors' Heads

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—William F. O'Casey and his associate members of the Flat Janitors' Union of Chicago, who were convicted on a charge of conspiracy to boycott during the strike of Janitors some time ago, were refused a hearing by the supreme court of Illinois. The case, however, is taken to the supreme court of the United States. In the meantime an effort will be made to have Governor Small pardon the labor leaders.

Mexican Huertista Troops Quit Puerto Mexico, Important Center

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 7.—It was learned from a reliable source this afternoon that the Mexican Huertista Fascist troops are rapidly evacuating Puerto Mexico.

This is one of the most important strategic points in the territory recently occupied by the revolutionists and its evacuation is interpreted here as further evidence of the complete collapse of the Huertista counter-revolution.

WIDOWS STAY AT FLOODED GRAVE OF IRON WORKERS

Survivors in Disaster Suffer in Bitter Cold

(Special to The Daily Worker)
CROSBY, Minn.—While the pumps which have been working ever since the Milford mine was flooded, from the bottom of Foley late dropped into the mine were keeping up their steady pumping to drain the flooded galleries, the wives and families of the miners who were killed kept a vigil in the next shafthead. Thirty-four widows and more than 100 orphans have been standing at the mine head waiting.

They are keeping a hopeless vigil. It is estimated that it will take at least three weeks for the two electric pumps, which are at work to pump the mine dry and transfer the water almost a mile to another shaft.

But nothing can convince the wives of the men who were killed to leave the scene of the disaster. The women stand silent except when they must hush the cries of the children.

Keeps Vigil in Cold.
A driving north wind and a blinding sleet snow clouded the bare hills near the Milford mine. The mercury is below zero but the women and children continue to stand and watch the water being pumped from the mine.

The homes of the miners are as cheerless and bare as the cold hills. Many of them have little food and less coal. The homes are mere shanties covered with wet mud and snow.

The men who tend the pumps work in short shifts because of the bitter cold. When they move the women who stand at the shaft house they ask them to go to their homes but are greeted with sullen faces. The seven men who escaped death in the mine are the better workers at the pumps.

Gene Life For Fellow.
They remember the heroic action of Clifton Harris, shipman of the Bitter cold. When they talk at the level of the mine when the floor broke. He stood at his post sounding the bell which warned the others of danger and called to them to run. Everybody "on the range" has been talking today of but one thing—the heroism of Harris, when they talk at all.

When representatives of the mining company, who operate the mine, went among the families of the miners who were killed and assured them that they would be taken care of financially by the company, the men's compensation law, they turned away with a word, the bitterness

HERE IS STATEMENT OF LLOYD GEORGE THAT STARTED THE STORM

Here is the statement made by Lloyd George in an interview which he gave to the press in London, France and the United States:

"There was the proposal for 15 Rhine military occupation of the Rhine frontier by the allies. I was opposed to it. It was called away to London. When I returned I found that Wilson had surrendered to Clemenceau and thus the French gained that right to occupy the Rhine country. I have fully quite recently discovered that during the absence in London, Clemenceau and Wilson signed a secret compact on this question."

They felt plainly visible on their faces.
For the most part, the families of the dead will have to depend on charity for food and coal. The slim wages of the iron miners did not permit any saving.

No Sleep Since Disaster
Mrs. Valentine Cole, whose husband was one of the miners killed in type of how the families of the men killed were affected. Mrs. Cole says with her seven months old baby on her lap, and her four year old son standing beside her. She sits and rocks her body back and forth. She has not slept since the disaster. She goes to the little two-room cottage in her home and prepares food for her two children. Then she comes back to the shafthead and sits. At last she called the children to bed and comes to sit and wait.

Carl Ravard, 14, was made an orphan when his father was killed in the mine. His mother has been dead more than ten years. He wanders about on the mine workings with a set face, saying an occasional word to the men working the pumps, and shaking his head when he stands at the shafthead to go home. Carl's uncle, Gasper Revord, was also drowned.

DENBY'S PICNIC SPOILED

WASHINGTON.—The Teapot Dome scandal has called off the secretary of the Navy Denby's prepared trip to Cuba to watch West Coast maneuvers.

A large company of American newspaper editors, invited by Denby to be his guests on the trip, will sail Sunday for Charleston, S. C. without their host.

Denby's office announced he had decided to cancel his Washington because of the Senate investigation. The editors will be gone three weeks.

"BIG THREE" SECRET PACT STIRS WORLD

Wilson, Lloyd George Agreed to Ruhr Drive

(Special to The Daily Worker)
LONDON.—A tremendous furor swept the British Isles and the continent today, on the heels of a charge by ex-premier Lloyd George that Woodrow Wilson and Clemenceau, during peace conference days, fixed up a secret pact behind his back whereby the American president agreed to occupy the Rhineland and the French troops for 15 years.

A sensation such as the Teapot Dome oil scandal created in the United States involved here another of the prominent figures, who helped make the Versailles treaty.

Busy As Bees-Hives
The French and British foreign offices were busy as bees; the former issued a flat denial of Lloyd George's charge; the latter put the matter up to the former prime minister for further explanation.

From Paris came an interview with "The Tiger," Clemenceau, denying Lloyd George's assertion; Andre Tardieu, who played a prominent part in peace conference proceedings, did not know of the pact.

The British press today printed an article overwriting Washington, New York, Paris and London had to say in connection with the alleged secret pact. Meanwhile Lloyd George, who pressed to produce the pact, or at least to answer the indictment of the French foreign office. He professed a statement later today.

What happened, in a nut shell, was this:
The French foreign office intends to publish a series of "yellow book" dealing with making of the Peace Conference and sent Great Britain proof, asking permission to publish them. "These were sent on to Lloyd George, 'out of courtesy, because in conjunction with President Wilson, I transferred Clemenceau, he had been concerned in a discussion of the matter."

"The 'Yellow Book' presumably was to be France's apologia for occupying the Rhineland and Ruhr. It was to show that Wilson and Lloyd George were really in the know."

"Whether or not this is what the 'Yellow Book' proofs contained, Lloyd George, upon receiving them, coincident with the death of Wilson, stated to the press that he had agreed that the secret pact agreeing to occupation of the Rhine had been made while he was away from Paris."

The British foreign office has asked Lloyd George to reply to the French denial of his charge and announced it will probably get consent of the MacDonald government to publication of the "Yellow Book."

Clemenceau Denies Story
PARIS.—Brittling savagely one minute, gruffly good-natured the next, Georges Clemenceau gave the lie direct to a statement credited to Lloyd George in an interview in the Chronicle to the effect that "The British foreign office had signed a secret pact during Versailles days, whereby the French government had agreed to occupy the Ruhr for 15 years." Clemenceau's object is saying so."

Hunt in Paris for Files.
Woodrow Wilson's private files may yield up an answer to the controversy. No decision will be reached until the files are examined in Paris over Lloyd George's charge that Wilson and Clemenceau arranged a secret pact on the Rhineland occupation, while Lloyd George was away from Paris.

What will now be done with those letters depends upon Mrs. Wilson's wishes. No decision will be reached for the present, it was indicated today.

Ford Needs 2,000,000 Tons Steel.
DETROIT, Mich.—Hunt for steel will yield 2,000,000 tons of steel in 1924. It is estimated by a statistician, if the proposed schedule of 10,000 cars a day is carried thru, that the Ford factory will consume about 5 per cent of the total steel production of the United States, during the coming year.

It won't end when, tired of the exploitation and wars carried out by seeing how their rulers have, as a political gesture—on under the pretense of doing good—longer by the lies of capitalism's hypocritical spokesmen, the working class dethrones its present rulers and puts them to work.

Let the good work go on. It began when the halo of divine right was torn from the brow of a king and the rising capitalist class came into its own.

It won't end when, tired of the exploitation and wars carried out by seeing how their rulers have, as a political gesture—on longer by the lies of capitalism's hypocritical spokesmen, the working class dethrones its present rulers and puts them to work.

If they won't work—
"You talk too much and tell too many lies," said Friar Tuck to the monk, "therefore, go and swim."

"The Big Three"—Liars Wilson, Lloyd George, Clemenceau— Betrayers of the Peace.

NOT the death of Woodrow Wilson, but the intended publication by the French government of a "Yellow Book" is responsible for the flood of charges, counter-charges and denials by capitalism's statesmen that now fill the press of the world and give additional insight into the workings of the international system of oppression and plunder.

The French government intended to show by documentary evidence that both Lloyd George and Woodrow Wilson agreed to the military guarantees for the payment of reparations that resulted in the occupation of the Ruhr and Rhineland, that disrupted the industrial and financial machinery of the capitalist world and that brought unimaginable misery, disease and starvation to millions of men, women and children in and out of Germany long after the war was ended and a peace treaty signed.

Lloyd George has denounced the Ruhr invasion. He toured the United States to arouse sentiment against it and he made it an issue in the election campaign just fought in Great Britain.

Woodrow Wilson, the apostle of "a peace of understanding and good will between nations," who posed as a friend of the German people, is now seen to have been not, as many thought, a weak opponent of French capitalism's bloody program, but one of the sponsors of that program.

We care not at all whether Woodrow Wilson and Clemenceau attacked this devilish scheme without consulting the tiny little spokesmen of British imperialism; we do care by what backstairs maneuvering and bed-room diplomacy the plan of murdering untold numbers of workmen and women and their children was brought into being so that the patriots of the stock markets and the exchanges could collect their interest and dividends.

We are not interested in knowing whether Lloyd George or his secretary were present when the lives of millions of workers and their children were weighed against the fortunes of the class that made the war but did not fight it. Nor are we interested in knowing whether the three men, Clemenceau, Wilson and Lloyd George, representing the great capitalist powers, had breakfast well that morning and appeared with rosy faces and a white carnation in the buttonholes of their frock-coats.

What we are interested in knowing, and it is well for the masses in England and America to know, is that during and for a long time after the war, they had at the head of their governments men who posed as humanitarian liberals, who denounced the bloodthirstiness of Clemenceau, who appealed to the peoples of the world in the name of justice and brotherhood, who stood forth as the champions of oppressed nationalities and who all the time were arranging, consulting upon and agreeing to a program of mass starvation and murder, enforced by bayonets and machine-guns, without parallel in the world's bloody history.

What was the object of this program, providing for the invasion and occupation of a conquered country which had acknowledged its defeat, overthrown the monarchy which had driven them to the shambles and set up the kind of government which the Wilsons and Lloyd Georges favored?
Its sole object, after the amount of reparations had been set at an impossible figure, the German people disarmed and back at the heels of the victors, was to enslave them, to force the capitalists and financiers, to make them work at the point of the bayonet for the rest of their lives for their own and foreign masters.

Conceived in infamy, this scheme has all but brought France and England to bankruptcy, in the United States has ruined hundreds of thousands of farmers by demoralizing currency system and destroying markets.

Woodrow Wilson is dead and every effort is being made to enshrine him in the national sanctuary. Clemenceau and Lloyd George still live to curse their countries, but no maudlin regard for the memory of the dead or respect for the living should prevent the workers and farmers of the world from learning the lessons taught by the controversial deluge that floods the empires of capitalist government the world over and corners diplomat tries to clear his skirts by laying the blame on the dead man and another, just as guilty, but more honest, involves both the dead and the living in the responsibility for the plot against the workers of all the world.

The Teapot Dome scandal shows our rulers participating in an outright theft of the nation's wealth. The governmental machinery of capitalism no longer works smoothly at home and the masses get a peep at their rulers without their robes of state.

The governmental machinery of capitalism no longer works smoothly in international affairs and the masses have an opportunity of seeing how their rulers have, as a political gesture—a "compromise," if you please—sold into slavery millions of workers and farmers of other lands while at home they voiced noble sentiments and called upon God to testify to their upright intentions.

Let the good work go on. It began when the halo of divine right was torn from the brow of a king and the rising capitalist class came into its own.

It won't end when, tired of the exploitation and wars carried out by seeing how their rulers have, as a political gesture—on longer by the lies of capitalism's hypocritical spokesmen, the working class dethrones its present rulers and puts them to work.

POINCAIRE SEES DEFEAT ON TAX BILL

Holds Power Only by Use of Trickery

(Special to The Daily Worker)
PARIS—Premier Poincaré remains in office today solely by virtue of a technicality and without the support of the majority of the deputies.

In a session of the chamber, the most stormy in recent years, Premier Poincaré, after the debate on his new taxation bill was over, the fact that signers of the petition for a public vote on the question refrained from voting and thus left a quorum.

M. Poincaré received 253 votes for his measure, the smallest number since he took the premiership ten years ago. The whole left block in the chamber, 220 deputies, refrained from voting with the exception of a quorum would not be had. The leaders of the center parties including Louis Loucheur, André Tardieu, Aristide Briand, the Marquis de Chambrun and M. Klotz voted against the government.

The fact that the rules of the chamber require that fifty signers of the petition must vote and automatically make a quorum is all that stands between Poincaré and defeat.

Had all the deputies voted the premier would have had a majority of from three to five votes, a margin so small that his resignation would have been inevitable.

The measure which passed by the technicality gives the government the right to institute direct taxes, duties and financial reforms by decree without appealing to the chamber of deputies.

There are 10 more chances to be passed upon and after that all his interests and purposes a defeat is deemed by Poincaré as being able to secure approval for them.

The belief is growing here that he has been increasingly reticent in the recent narrow escape of Poincaré that his ship would not founder soon upon the rock of the taxation question.

Kills Will Whirl, War Pipes Shirl, at Scotch Ball

"Did you ever see a Scotchman without a kilts?" asked one reporter.

"Thank the Lord, no," I replied, "being of a very modest and retiring disposition, if you wish to put it that way, I have seen none of them and I am convinced that they are more than enough of them to last for a long time to come."

"You see, I am not a Scotchman," I replied, "and I am not a kilts-wearer, but I am a Scotchman in spirit, and I am convinced that they are more than enough of them to last for a long time to come."

U.S. Senator Couzens Shows Mellon, Treasury Head, Is Corporation Tool

(Special to The Daily Worker)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The Treasury Secretary of the Treasury Mellon with "playing directly into the hands of the corporations," Senator Couzens, Michigan, in another tax letter today said Mellon's laxity in enforcing the law is costing the government much revenue.

"It is the administrative provisions of the law and the law enforcement which is cutting down the revenues, if they are being cut, as you claim," Couzens stated.

"You are directing no effort to get the corporations, but rather are playing directly into their hands. For example, you are selling billions of dollars of government securities at an unreasonably high interest rates."

"It is estimated that you have paid the bankers over one hundred million dollars in excessive interest rates and you did this even though the banks pay no income or corporation taxes on government securities."

How Mellon Bank Escapes
"You are a bank robber," National of Pittsburgh, holds nearly 700 millions on which it pays no taxes whatsoever.

Couzens submitted two tax reduction proposals to Mellon. The first—Tax all dividends and interest of personal holding companies on the same basis as individual.

Second—Reduce corporate taxes from 12 1/2 to 25 per cent if Congress reduces the maximum surtax to 25 per cent.

Third—Reduce Taxes
Couzens cited Tappan Dome testimony to prove that rich individuals are avoiding the tax laws in various ways, especially by the formation of personal holding corporations, for their own personal stocks and bonds.

"The greatest loophole for avoiding taxes is the formation of holding companies in addition to the large number of corporations," Couzens stated. "Will you tell me if there is any reason why they should not be taxed on the same basis as corporations receive all the preference?"

Acting upon the advice of Poincaré and Mellon, Senator Couzens, Michigan, chief investigator, proposed a motion to the committee on executive session, stating that, as there was a chance of Paul Escobar legal action, the committee should not have required his presence.

The motion was rejected. This motion was adopted without objection.

In a telegram to the Chief Executive of the South Dakota coal trust, Escobar asserted that he was the duty of the federal government to protect the interests of the state.

"I am glad to say that the Democratic Party in South Dakota has not rejected that nomination," Senator Escobar, Arizona, Democrat, declared.

Cold Eyes of Witnesses Watch Pussy Chokin in Lethal Chamber Where Human Beings Perish Today

(Special to The Daily Worker)
CARSON CITY, Nev.—A "rehearsal of death" was held at the Nevada State Penitentiary here today to assure officials in charge of the lethal gas execution of Gee Jon, Chinese, and Thomas Russell, Mexican, condemned murderers, that there will be no hitch in the grim business set for tomorrow morning.

All preparations so far as E. B. Walker, cyanic fumigation expert, is concerned, are completed.

He tested the hydro-cyanic gas tanks which will force the gas into the death chamber in a fine spray to deal death to the two men, went over every inch of the cell surface to find leaks and made sure that the door would close promptly.

A cat was placed in the death cell, the gas turned on and thru the glass windows, where witnesses will watch the passing of the two murderers, they observed the passing of the cat.

DIRT FARMERS ABSENT AT N.D. N.P. LEAGUE MEET

Only Four Delegates from Trade Unions

(Special to The Daily Worker)
BISMARCK, N. D.—The state convention of the Non-Partisan League of North Dakota is in session here with 97 delegates representing most of the 50 counties in the state present.

Only four of the delegates are trade union members sent by the labor organizations, which are very weak in North Dakota.

Many of the delegates give the impression of being hopelessly misled around the old Non-Partisan League program which has become a dead letter. These delegates are still clinging to the old plans and are in despair.

Many of them are looking for a way out of the political and economic conditions of the poor farmers of the state.

But this very bankruptcy of the League program and some of its leaders is creating a strong sentiment for the organization of a new political party.

These delegates who represent the dirt farmers are hopeful that the new political party will be organized and that it will be able to take the place of the old League.

A sharp fight is also looked for by everybody on the situation here. It is a steady state of affairs at the meeting of the Republican State Central Committee in this city last December.

There is no doubt that this action of the State Central Committee will bring on a real fight. All the delegates feel that this fight cannot be avoided.

Myerscough Will Speak Tonight at Amalgamated Forum

Thomas Myerscough, militant miner who was expelled by the Western Coal and Mining Company from the Pittsburgh district, speaks before the open forum of the Amalgamated Local No. 39 at Ashland Auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock.

Myerscough will talk on the "Left Wing of the Miners' Convention," a subject he knows through the open forums of Local No. 39 have been very successful in their efforts to win the address of invited speakers.

Strike Against Short Weights. MURPHYSHOES, Ill.—When a checkweighman employed by the Western Coal and Mining Company short weighed the employees of that company working at the Bush Mine No. 2, the miners demanded that the company and on their refusal to do so 700 miners quit work.

The dispute was referred to the executive board of District 12 for settlement.

TWO WISCONSIN CITIES IN SNOW FACING FAMINE

Rotary Plows in Battle with Big Drifts

(Special to The Daily Worker)
MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 7.—At least two Wisconsin cities isolated by the recent blizzard are reported to be facing food famine, according to meager reports trickling into Milwaukee.

The reports indicate that both sides of the drifts are completely shut off from the outside world following the most severe blizzard in years, and have about exhausted their necessary supplies and are in danger of starvation.

Rotary snow plows today were engaged to clear the huge drifts in an effort to carry food and supplies to the inhabitants of the isolated cities.

Tugs with supplies were being sent from Manitowish to Two Rivers in an effort to carry food and supplies to the isolated cities.

Trains running north out of Milwaukee have been at a standstill and due to the huge drifts have been unable to make any headway.

Conflicting reports in almost half a century are reported in a blizzard swept area.

"Snow fell here again last night and with a good stiff northwest wind, raised snow drifts to a height of 10 feet, and in some places to 15 feet."

GERMANS' LACK OF GRIEF BRINGS RAGE OF LEAGION

Fire Envoys; Starve Country, Is Cry

(Special to The Daily Worker)
WASHINGTON.—Stomping under the German ambassador's refusal to issue official protests against the mourning demonstrations for the 14-point betrayal of his country, Washington is considering the most severe retaliatory measures, it was learned today.

Pressure is being brought to bear on cabinet members to cancel all German relief plans as a punishment on the nation whose government failed to fall in with the public display of grief for the death of the man who symbolized America's give his passports at once.

Wiedefeld's attitude was in obedience to the German commands of the Berlin government which forbids him to take any official part in the Wilson mourning. The German finally yielded to the threats of the man, which had gathered in front of his embassy building, and in the presence of his diplomatic colleagues sufficiently to half meet the demands of Wilson's mourning.

The outcry against the ambassador was said to have been voiced by Attorney General Daugherty's jockeys, who are anxious to distract attention from the scandal which is engulfing their paymaster.

If the only official public policy is that of the gratification of the public, the gratification will be drowned.

Don't Need Money Now. GUAYAVEA refused to allow the poor house today to claim $1,000,000.

"I don't want the money—I've been told by the secretary," said Salomez, who went to the house when he was unable to earn a living by painting.

"Bill the Fat," Supreme Court Goes to Bed After Eating Too Much

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—William H. Taft, former President and now Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court, will be required to rest a period as the result of an attack on his health.

Mr. Taft today was reported at his home to be about the same as yesterday when he was too ill to attend the funeral of the late President.

Russia Won the War, Admits the Chicago Tribune

Asking the question, Who Won the War, the Chicago Tribune, in a leading article in the middle west during the blizzard, declares editorially:

Our own modest opinion, ripened by the war, is that nobody won the war. The war, it seems to us, was not won, but lost, and the loss is pretty widely distributed among all concerned.

It is believed that the mission's departure from England was hastened by the illness of one of the members.
