$70,000,000 in Bonds Owned in U. S.

(By The Editorial Staff)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The Senate today passed a bill authorizing the Philippine government bonds, which are 29 years still to run, are held by American banks.

That was the chief definite news issued by Secretary of War Weeks, at a hearing before the House Committee on Insular Affairs, against giving immediate independence to the islands.

Weeks, the bond broker, now the cabinet officer, talked pompously of the "obligation" of the United States to the Philippines, and of the need for prudent consideration of any change in relations with the Filipino people.

Weeks said that the Philippine independence was "not expressive of the best interests and wishes and mature consideration of the Philippine people."

Weeks said that the United States should hold the islands until full payment of these bonds, and some $41,000,000 of other securities, was made. He and General McIntyre, head of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, admitted that the United States had no legal claim based on these debts, that they Philippine independence was a "moral" claim which would justify continued American occupation. Weeks felt that "an definite period" American rule should be granted to the islands, and that capital would continue to flow into the islands and develop the resources there.

Representative Schaefer of Wisconsin asked whether Weeks did not mean that American forces should hold the islands for the next 20 years.

Weeks said that the islands were not direct reply.

Fillmore Demands Freedom.
Speaker Manuel Rojas of the legislature replied to the broker-secrretary, to the financial conditions of three years ago in the islands, and the depression in trade, and had no help. The government is in a sound condition. It asks no financial aid from America.

"We are a people who have fought for our freedom," he remarked. "For three years we waged a heroic struggle to win our independence. We have given deliberate and mature consideration to this issue. We stand not in doubt. We want to stand free."

Mexican Labor Is Suspicious of Ramsay McDonald Government

(By The Editorial Staff)
MEXICO, CITY, Feb. 28.—Labor circles here are beginning to express doubts as to the genuine proletarian character of the new British government because recognition is being withheld from Mexico on various pretexts. Reports come from Great Britain are to the effect that that country is still in a "Munich" until "claims of British citizens" are satisfied.

As these citizens are the exploiters of Mexico and their claims are not unlike those of British and British citizens against Russia, the workers here cannot see why this country should not be recognized first, and the claims discussed afterward. Nor do they see the wisdom of a labor government to protect "its" finance imperialist exploiting class.

Jesus of Nazareth Is Burning Issue in California State

(By The Editorial Staff)
SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 28.—The prosecution has appealed to the state supreme court the criminal syndicalism cases of William Flanagan and Albert Stangeland, on which the appellate court recently reversed decision. The latter ruled that it was necessary that Flanagan and Stangeland should have realized "the illegal nature of the I. W. W." at the time they joined it.

The petition for appeal to the supreme court takes issue with these findings, claiming in essence that belief in the divinity of Christ is a sign of "criminal tendencies." Thus does the fundamentalist controversy reach the realm of California politics.

THE POWER COLUMN How to Make the Daily Worker Grow Choose Your Method and MAKE IT Work

THERE are so many different ways by which THE DAILY WORKER can be increased that we hesitate to print all of them that come to our mind and all of them that DAILY WORKER agents and boosters send in, for fear that some comrades will be confused by the multitude of opportunities and not stick to any of them long enough to make it work.

Of the dozens of special methods which DAILY WORKER agents have used with success, all of them have one thing in common—to make them successful, persistency and energy was required. Basically everywhere the problem of securing new readers for THE DAILY WORKER is the same:

1.—It is necessary to make THE DAILY WORKER attractive to the workers.

2.—It is necessary to stick to the job of selling, to overcome petty obstacles and "turn-downs" by sticking to the job.

Previously, in The Power Column, we have suggested a number of ways by which THE DAILY WORKER can best be advertised. In our opinion the best and most constant method of advertisement is by "word of mouth."

One of the first tasks of DAILY WORKER branch agents is to get the members of his branch and the workers in his locality to talking about THE DAILY WORKER. "TALK IT UP!" is a slogan which must be in continuous use.

Talk about THE DAILY WORKER, talk about it in general, talk about special features of it in particular, certain articles or editorials, certain policies which it advocates.

When in a meeting of workers, get the floor to tell about THE DAILY WORKER, the great new labor paper which is attracting thousands to it. When in a group of workers, turn the conversation to the matter of the press and tell about THE DAILY WORKER which has been issued to save the working-class from the scourge of the boss-kept press. When talking to a friend or shop mate or a member of your union, tell him about THE DAILY WORKER. Always carry a few copies in your pocket. So that you back up your statements by showing the paper. Make THE DAILY WORKER a permanent and constant topic of conversation. It's the biggest thing in the American labor movement.

By advertising THE DAILY WORKER in its itself making it attractive to thinking workers. Everyone of them knows that the capitalist press is poison. With many of them it is necessary only to show THE DAILY WORKER in order to secure a subscription. With others it sometimes needs a little argument and a little argument and the sale is made.

But of all the things necessary for the successful work of THE DAILY WORKER booster it is sticking on the job which is the most important. With the knowledge that THE DAILY WORKER is the best daily newspaper in America it is necessary only to work hard enough and to keep at it to achieve success. Choose your method of work and then keep at it until it succeeds.

10,000 NEW SUBSCRIBERS BY JUNE 15. HOW MANY ARE YOU GOING TO GET?

Watch for the Announcement of the Sub Campaign.

Canton, Ohio.
The Power Column: I am getting THE DAILY WORKER every day and have been passing it along to each and every worker in the steel plant. I have even had a copy posted on one of the bulletin boards in the plant.

It is something the working man has needed for years to put him in touch with what is going on all over the world. The boys all seem to enjoy it and I have ten new subscribers I'll send you on pay day.

I have made it plain to the boys that I would be glad to send in to you any news they might have.

Yours very truly,
JOHN P. O'BRIEN, Chairman, International Steel Workers of the World.

The Power Column: One way I get subs is to canvass in the evening when the men are home from work. I tell them all about the paper. Some of them try to put me off but I tell them they can pay me on payday.

In order to be able to get them to subscribe to some working class paper, I take a list of the foreign language papers with me to their subscription prices. If any worker tells me he can't read English then I tell them about the worker's paper which is published in their own language. Then they can't put me off; I either sell THE DAILY WORKER or one of the others.

I think I have some good advice to give to other DAILY WORKER agents: Some evening go to visit your neighbor. Don't say anything about our paper right away. They will start themselves. "This is what most of them say to me: 'Gee I wish I had something to read. What do you do these long evenings?'" Then is your chance. Tell them about THE DAILY WORKER and before you leave you will have a new sub. Try this and see how it works. If you can't get them the first time try them again and you will surely succeed.

One party told me that he had a good job and didn't like to lose it just now. You see he would sooner sell himself for a job than to the working class. pity this kind that are still so dumb. Some of them call me a red but I laugh at them and tell them that red is a nice color.

Comradely yours,
MRS. MIKE GERGITZ, Marianna, Pa.

Dear Comrades: Better send me a couple more sales books. If you wish my branch to cover Austin Station I have a couple of reliable comrades to help me out. I am literature agent for my branch; so for commissions due me I give literature to those subscribing. What do you think of that? It ought to help me clean my shelves.

Yours for success,
E. WICKSTROM, Oak Park, Ill.

What have you to say to your fellow DAILY WORKER boosters? Say it thru The Power Column.

Micawbers of the C. P. P. A.

"Labor," published in Washington, D. C., is the official organ of the "sixteen standard railway unions" and the mouthpiece of the Conference for Progressive Political Action.

On the first page is a feature story of the Chicago conference which attempted to renovate McAdoo, containing the resolution of confidence signed by 17 railway union officials and the names of the unions they represent.

In the editorial column is a blackface boxed editorial reprinted from the "Washington News" eulogizing LaFollette but deprecating attempts to make him appear as a third party candidate.

In "Longern's Column," a feature contributed by Edward Keating, another eulogy of "Labor," is another eulogy of LaFollette accompanied by an expression of doubt as to what he will do—stay with the republican party or split.

The official organ of the C. P. P. A. as this analysis shows is merely drifting with the tide, buffeted by the political waves as is the organization for the most progressive outlet.

The spokesmen of the so-called progressive wing of the American labor movement are torn between their allegiance to McAdoo and LaFollette. They are exercising no initiative whatever as a labor group but are willing to follow either LaFollette or McAdoo as candidates of the capitalist class.

So reactionary is the officialdom of the American Federation of Labor that the Committee for Progressive Political Action has been termed its most progressive outlet.

They want LaFollette first as a republican candidate; second as a third party candidate. If neither event should develop they are for McAdoo as the democrat nominee.

We are willing to go no farther than this with predictions of the future of McAdoo. LaFollette does not get nominations and LaFollette does not get nominations and LaFollette does not get nominations.

Just at present, however, the Conference for Progressive Political Action wails Micawber-like for something to turn up.

On the Altar of Profits

An item that is never found in the annual reports of corporations giving the profits and dividends for the year is the item dealing with the loss of limb and life suffered by the workmen in the very process of grinding out these profits, these big dividends for the bosses.

The American coal diggers are the pace-makers in mining efficiency. Our miners are the most efficient in the world. The American miner is almost three times as productive as nearest competitor in mining efficiency.

The American coal diggers are the pace-makers in mining efficiency. Our miners are the most efficient in the world. The American miner is almost three times as productive as nearest competitor in mining efficiency.

They were killed for their when they were killed digging coal and dividends were reaped. Yet, the coal barons administered the mining for their when they were killed digging coal and dividends were reaped.

They draw up their annual financial statements of profit and loss of their property. The life of the miner does not matter an iota to the capitalist.

According to the Bureau of Mines only 320 of this heavy casualty list are accounted for by unsafe practices. All the other losses of lives were due to such causes as falls of rock and coal, gas accidents, gas and dust explosions, etc.

Alongside of the almighty dollar of the capitalist, the life, the security of the worker shrinks into nothingness. The thousands of lives lost by the miners year in and year out, these thousands of sacrifices on the altar of profit, should imbue the working class with a burning hatred against the devastating, hell-breeding system of capitalism.

Quitter and Grafter

That William Gibbs McAdoo is as gentle a grafter as ever stepped out of the pages of an O. Henry novel, no person with normally equipped mind will doubt for a moment after reading the facts concerning his acceptance of a large bribe from the Pullman Co.

In addition to the generally accepted conviction that McAdoo hands are soiled with a large extent by the inclusion of a grafter in the latter was in the greatest jeopardy of his entire political career.

Mr. McAdoo, "the political hero" of the hysterical Wilsonians and reactionary labor agitators, who gathered in the Crystal Room of the Great Hall to cheer his re-election to the office of the crude oil with which it was tar-nished, never quit the employment of Doheny until he concluded that such employment threatened to destroy his political career.

McAdoo knew that he was employed by Doheny to ravish the mineral wealth of Mexico. Doheny was a man of high intelligence while Wilson was president and over the coffee urge his father-in-law to threaten Oregon with war unless the demands of McAdoo's client were complied with.

He stuck to the Doheny dog bag until it was discovered that "the peerless leader of progressive democracy" was in danger of becoming unavailable for the presidency. Then he quit.

Doheny is a pirate, a purchaser of cabinet posts, a robber of public property. McAdoo has his accomplice, but McAdoo along with being a grafter is a quitter.

An Instructive Coincidence

If it is true that every cloud has its silver lining, then the corollary, that every silver lining has its cloud must also be true. There is a humorous phase of the spot that is worthy of comment, even if it is only for the joke value in the incident.

Goldie's handpicked bipartisan oil prospector, Doheny, who has been in the job on the job plan the wells and get some results for the "people" in the Doheny-Sinclair holdup. Doheny, in the environs of LaSalle, has gotten into themselves a suite of offices in the new Transportation building right off the Oil Company headquarters of the Standard Oil Company.

Spending environment, indeed! We do not ask our readers to grow oversuspicious and conclude forthwith that there is to be close co-operation between the government's representatives and the Rockefeller interests. Perhaps these "servants of the people" couldn't help themselves. If they had rented the next building to the right, they might have landed in the same building with the Washington branch of the Mexican Petroleum Company, which is a subsidiary of the Doheny-Pan American Petroleum Corporation—the lessee of the Elk Hills Naval Reserve in California.

Or if Messrs. Fomenere and Roberts had taken expense charges the way from this building, they would have fallen into the headquarters of the many Washington watchmen of Mr. Doheny, the San Francisco lawyer, George McNab or, in the environs of LaSalle, Cooke. Mr. Fall's special legal representative in Washington.

All of this may or may not be a case of very strange coincidence. The reader has his freedom of choice. Yet, we submit that this somewhat humorous side of the oil tragedy affords a lesson in the choice between the plight of the poor prospector show his humorous way, of course, the grip that oil has on Washington. The champions of the "public good" have even the order legal printing in an atmosphere which is not saturated with oil. Again we say that the fact that the Housing problem for our oil prospector has resolved itself into a choice between the plight of the Standard Oil or being neighbors of Doheny oil is a coincidence even more instructive than strange.

Let us not be too cynical. All power to oil! Attorney-General Daugherty has received some telegrams expressing confidence in his administration. The Chicago newspapermen, contrary to general belief.
