

Are You Reading "A Week"?

By IURY LIEBENSKY. Published by THE DAILY WORKER... (WHAT HAPPENED BEFORE)... (WHAT HAPPENED AFTER)...

heard the insolent, mocking words. Grey, malicious eyes looked...

What Do You Think of Our First Story?

The DAILY WORKER wants to know what its readers think of the first serial novel offered by its readers...

The Trade Union Movement in Poland

The last year was for the trade union movement in Poland a year of exceedingly hard struggle against capital... The trade unions weakened... Economic Situation Grows Worse... The Left Wing Attacks...

By J. LENSKY

The standard of living of the Polish workers has steadily fallen... The tremendous increase in the rate of exchange forced the... The left wing received more votes in the last elections...

Democratizing Honduras

Now Honduras is to be given a baptismal bath of Wall Street democracy in a rain of bullets... Our folk are coming nearer...

By JAY LOVESTONE

of thousands of our workers and farmers were wounded or killed during the world war...

The Priest Speaks

By WILLIAM GAMALIER SHEPARD. Scene: Madison Square Garden, New York City... God sat all night in rapture with the stars...

BOOK REVIEW

The Government of India, by J. Ramsay MacDonald... This book gives considerable information on the political machinery of the British government in India...

Our Advertisers help make this Paper possible. Patronize our Advertisers and tell them you saw their Ad in The Daily Worker.

Stain on Tasks of Russian Communist Party

Note.—THE DAILY WORKER today publishes the concluding part of the speech delivered by Comrade Stalin at a large meeting of party workers on the problems confronting the Russian Communist Party at the present time. Our readers cannot help but admire the frankness with which the Comrade accuses their weaknesses. We were so sure that we could not be deceived by the Russian Communist chiefs. They will gain the only advantage from the spread of men and women who are resolved to err and the best way to avoid mistakes is to acknowledge their presence and find a cure for them. We urge you to not miss a single part of this important discussion. In our next issue we will publish the first portion of Comrade Zinovief's speech. He is Chairman of the Communist International and President of the Petrograd Soviet.

Comrade Stalin Continues:
It is necessary to do more work among the non-party workers. This is one means by which the inner Party situation and the activity of the Party are better understood. It must be little attention to this. The little attention especially. The little of non-party workers in our Soviet organizations, I believe that if we do not put certain minimum

In the Domain of the Children's Struggle

It is lucky for us that the Communist children's movement in America has had its birth pangs at a time when its best interests, the youth and adult Communist movement had achieved their greatest triumphs. The child and adolescent became living fighting bodies engaged in mass activity. The favorable conditions surrounding the birth has naturally reflected itself in the striding infant—the Junior Section of the Young Workers League, so far as it has retained its identity from the very start as an organization engaged in the class struggle.

Many of the parents of the 5,000 young communists in the Junior Section do not recognize this important feature of the organization and when it is brought to their notice "We are the young people" may utter and distorted conceptions of the matter formed. It is at this point that the parents take advantage of their economic superiority over the child to force it to sabotage this phase of the Junior Groups' activity. Even Communist parents—members of the Workers Party have been known at times to sabotage the class struggle feature of the children's movement. This sad factor is not new and only be rectified thru the establishment of a better understanding and relationship between the adults and the children. This is already being partially accomplished in the Junior Groups.

On the Field of Battle.
The child in the public school struggles for the adult proletarian, as in the public school room forms a battle field—the proletarian class struggle for the proletarian class.

It is here that the child is confronted with the iron heel of the machine. The child in the public school, as we have of faith in the non-partisans, we shall make a very great mistake of our organizations on the part of the non-partisan. Faith of Non-Partisan. This faith on the part of the non-partisan is imperatively necessary to be held maintaining that Comrade Stalin would try and glorify the non-partisan must be encouraged to take up state work. We shall gain the only advantage from the spread of men and women who are resolved to err and the best way to avoid mistakes is to acknowledge their presence and find a cure for them. We urge you to not miss a single part of this important discussion. In our next issue we will publish the first portion of Comrade Zinovief's speech. He is Chairman of the Communist International and President of the Petrograd Soviet.

It should like to mention two circumstances. Two arrangements have appeared in some discussion articles in "Pravda" with respect to the workings of the party democracy.

Danger of NEP.
The first extreme is in regard to nomination by election. This consists of the efforts made by proposed with seeming contradictions. The children do in one on their own school. The children do in one on their own school. The children do in one on their own school.

How the Battle is Conducted.
It is marvelous to watch how very naturally the child takes to the class struggle activities and how they can utilize their party experience for their own ends. An interesting example of this is portrayed by our Daventry, Ill. Junior Group. One week the group reported that they had been playing some Communist games, among them one which is called "Catching the shop nodule organizer." Thru the medium of this game the children grasped the entire idea of the nodule form of organization and the work following the game had already divided their Junior Group into four distinct nuclei, which today function right on the field of battle.

As a generalization you can lay out the form that the battle takes as follows: The children have gained a Communist perception in the Junior Groups; having made a study of the true nature of history, etc., will naturally rebel when the teacher presents these subjects in the usual manner. At times a solitary little rebel will get up and "Oh teacher, in our Junior Groups we found out that George Washington was a wicked man who bought and sold black and white slaves." This little rebel, who is doubt be defeated and forced to submit to the rule of the teacher, at other times the other children will be won over by the solitary little rebel and join in his fight. The child's existence of a Junior Group School or even class nucleus will serve as the basis for the winning over of even greater masses of the school children to the fight on. At no time is the child permitted to feel as the struggle is the machination of some other comrades.

A LAUGH FOR THE CHILDREN
Hold your own
paw there
Mr. Bob,
and you'll hear music.

Listen to the music now!

man elements to gain admittance to the "election" to the almost possible point. Election having once been admitted to be the right method, then on to electing at any price. This view, comrades, is a mistaken one. The Party will not accept it. To be sure we are no longer living in times of war, we are passing thru a period of reaction. However, but we have the New Economic Policy. We do not forget this, comrades. The non-partisan must be encouraged to take up state work. We shall gain the only advantage from the spread of men and women who are resolved to err and the best way to avoid mistakes is to acknowledge their presence and find a cure for them. We urge you to not miss a single part of this important discussion. In our next issue we will publish the first portion of Comrade Zinovief's speech. He is Chairman of the Communist International and President of the Petrograd Soviet.

By NAT KAPLAN.

The children do in one on their own school. The children do in one on their own school. The children do in one on their own school. The children do in one on their own school. The children do in one on their own school.

By SCOTT HEARING
Changes in the ways of making a living cause misery and suffering. The time must come when such alterations in the economic structure can be effected without the terrible upsets that now accompany them, but while one class holds special privileges, it will almost inevitably resist changes which threaten to destroy its vested interests. Under present circumstances, important changes in the economic life invariably involve very heavy losses.

No Freedom of Choice.
Such remarks presuppose that the world is free to choose between capitalist property and Soviet hardship. Consequently, favoring the latter in general favor at this present moment. It is true for the United States. Ten years it would have also been true of Germany, but meanwhile the German people have been starved and rotted. As between Russia and Germany the choice is Soviet hardship.

Marx in Words and Action

No better illustration of the wide rift between the formal, sterile acceptance of Marxian principles in words and the living, breathing, active life of a party engaged in leading the workers in the class struggle. The party can be found that which appears in the words of Louis B. Boudin in the February issue of the American Labor Monthly.

Boudin has acquired a reputation as a Marxist. He has written a book on "The Theoretical System of Karl Marx," which the writer contends to have studied as part of his Marxist education something over a decade ago. Like Kautsky, Boudin knows the principles which Marx developed from his study of history and analysis of capitalist society. Undoubtedly he could make brilliant theoretical presentation of these principles. But when Kautsky and Boudin stand before the seething ocean of our present day social order, in which the waves of conflicting class interests dash higher and thicker and break in great torrents as they meet, their Marxist theories remain sterile intellectual formulas which they are unable to apply to this seething ocean of social life. The two old parties have both been let off favored by Victor Berger. The reformers and the Socialists Party are for a "Third Party" at the present time in the United States.

Victor Berger is unquestionably LaPollette. Victor Berger is for the reformers and the Socialists Party. He is for the reformers and the Socialists Party. He is for the reformers and the Socialists Party. He is for the reformers and the Socialists Party.

Capitalism Offers No Choice

German capitalism had developed more completely however, and the war crisis merely hastened its deterioration. The events of the last few years in Germany therefore probably point the way that will be followed when matured capitalist countries see a life and death crisis.

No Hope in Capitalism.
What will happen to a society that trends the path of capitalism? Class war international war, disaster, destruction. The inhabitants of the capitalist world cannot choose between capitalist property and Soviet hardship. Capitalism will bring elsewhere, what it has brought to Germany, terror and want.

"Third Party" movement there is the tendency for the creation of a mass movement, to be complete again? For the Marxist for whom Marxism is more than a mere formula, the formula these movements are of the most vital significance, for it is the only way to bring about a revolution through this crystallization of the class struggle and the struggle for power, through the weakening of the capitalist power in its present, that the way is opened for a revolution.

We must stand aside while this process goes on and in isolated incidents protect our revolutionary vigilance. We must enter into this movement. We must put our part in it. We must throw all our strength into hastening the crystallization of the petty bourgeoisie "Third Party" and the working class of the reformers and the Socialists. We will not be deterred from carrying out these tactics by the fact that seemingly we are working in a united front with Victor Berger and the Socialists. We know that while the Socialists support of this "Third Party" is an expression of opportunism, that our tactics are revolutionary Marxism because we are aiming at a different "Third Party" movement and the Farmer-Labor Party movement is crystallizing political parties representing the petty bourgeoisie and the workers and exploited farmers respectively—the birth of the political consciousness of these classes. At the present time the petty bourgeoisie and the workers and exploited farmers are being crushed by the capitalist power which LaPollette and the "Third Party" will advocate, will open the road for their escape from the exploitation and oppression of capitalism.

LENIN

He hurred himself out
To feed a larger flame;
And now his ashes burn
Beside within the Kremlin walls—
Soon to pass.

We bow our heads in sorrow
That our leader's gone,
But Lenin is not dead.
He lives in the heart of the lowly Russian;
In the hearts of France and Germany;
In the hearts of France and Germany;
In the hearts of France and Germany;

He carried the wounds of a martyr,
And suffered the shame of an outcast.
He was hated like a hound of hell
By all the plagues through the world.

But Lenin held within the depths of
The mis brain,
The mis brain, which rucked
The whole network of capitalism,
And now the mis brain,
Which is marching on triumphantly,
While all about, capitalism
Falls to ruin.

All hail, To the Workers' Republic.
The work he loved so well.
Lenin is not dead,
His monument lives forever.
E. ARL ALTVATER.

Any Book Mailed Free
Wherever on Receipt of Price.
Ask Us—We Know Books.
Stationary-Greeting Cards
Orders mailed with a 10¢ stamp
of a new world.

IMPEACH COOLIDGE!

UNCLE WIGGLY'S TRICKS

Thank you for turning Uncle Wiggly.

I can't be tricked
by any trick
of any kind.

