The Capitalist International

When the London Conference meets to discuss the application of the Dawes plan for settling the reparations problem, the problem that it has to solve is the healing of the split in the Capitalist International...

press would not and could not be turned against them as in the case of the working men on strike. Then the workers turned in despair to the courts. Their branch of our judiciary aristocracy ruled that it had no jurisdiction. How illuminating is the note that the courts confess they have no right to make the employers to the mark in questions of dispute with workmen!

The Employers Approve

The country's biggest open shop organization has announced its wholehearted indorsement of the platform of the democratic and republican parties.

July 15th issue of "American Industries," James A. Emery, the general counsel for this group of bosses, analyzes both platforms and shows how well they measure up with the demands made by the open-shoppers in the matters involving the judiciary, taxation, foreign trade policies and the merchant marine.

Czar's Bondholders Still Hope

Despatches from New York relate that a so-called "protective committee" for holders of Imperial Russian government bonds issued by the Czar in 1916, of which $25,000,000 worth were sold in the United States...

Toward the Next War

The Department of Commerce has just published figures on the foreign trade of the United States which reveal the forces driving us headlong toward another war.

Who is the Democratic Party?

BY JAY LOVETON
The Democratic Party is not the party of the masses. It is not the party of the workers and farmers. It is not the party of the oppressed.

Introducing Mr. Davis
John W. Davis' introduction to the workers and farmers, has been well introduced to the workers and farmers.

NO one will tell the Democratic Party that it is not the party of the masses. It is not the party of the workers and farmers. It is not the party of the oppressed.

As a member of the law firm of Morgan and Kelly, Mr. Davis is a well-known figure in the Democratic Party. He is a member of the law firm of Morgan and Kelly.

McADOO AND WALL STREET

THE McAdoo forces are now blaming Wall Street for the defeat of their candidate at the democratic convention. This charge is untrue. If Wall Street means the owners of the big industries of the country, the moneyed men who are high in the councils of finance, then certainly Wall Street was not opposed, as a unit, to McAdoo being the democratic standard bearer.

challenged the widely accepted statement that the financial "angel" of the democratic party invested approximately ten million dollars of his personal funds in the McAdoo campaign.

The Courts Again

Another blow has been struck at the decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals against the railway employees of the Pennsylvania system receiving the wages awarded them by the Railway Labor Board.

The Poor Fish

The Poor Fish says: It was a noble thing the Socialist Party did to get out of the water for the sake of the fish. And the only thing that got us out of the water was the honor of having Ab Cahan appointed to select the delegates to pay LaFollette's campaign expenses.
